

JV breaks ground on Progresso Point

FORT LAUDERDALE - Shovels dug in recently at Progresso Point, an affordable upscale mid-rise apartment building slated for completion in late 2012. The project is collaboration between Broward County Housing Authority (BCHA) and Reliance Housing Foundation.

Designed to meet the expanding needs of Fort Lauderdale's downtown high growth area, the $20 million, 76-unit community will include features seen in many desirable locations of South Florida with the benefits of downtown living.
